More than 2,000 new computer companies entered the industry in 1969 alone! And over 1,000 advanced technology companies will be formed this year.

These are without a doubt the most explosive industries in a time when authentic and accurate information is already too difficult to acquire. ALL PEOPLE involved with either of these dynamic fields can now have a reference manual to save time, increase revenues, and stay current and updated.

The amazing rapidity of change in the computer and technology industries requires that a central information source concentrate entirely and consistently on these two areas.

Computer + Technology Information is that central information source. Now you can benefit from the research and expertise that produced the World Directory of Computer Companies and the Directory of Advanced Technology Companies.
